January 26, 1965

Charles A. Moore, Editor Philosophy, East and West University of Hawaii Honolulu 14, Hawaii

Dear Hr. Moore:

Control Search

A series Sor a Method to Undermine Marxism is a chapter in my projected work; tentatively entitled Philosophy and Revolution, which I have been sending around to colleagues for their criticism. One friend that I send it to your journal, as he felt that the current hos suggested that I send it to your journal, as he felt that the current togue of Sartrean type of Marxism made the piece topical for separate publication. The thought intrigued me also because I may have an apportunity to a ton. The Inought intrigued me are because I may have an opportunity to a top off in Honolulu in Spring-Summer, either on my way to, or on my return from, Japan, where I am to lecture on my work Marxism and Freedom, which has been translated into Japanese under the title of Allenation and

I trust that the views of a Marxist-Humanist are philosophically "legitimate" in a critique of Jean-Paul Sertre, now that the philosopher of existentialism claims that his philosophy is but an "enclave" in the Marxian philosophy.

Your's sincerely,

Sent airmail & brochuse and typesarist