There's something for everyone at the Cabbagetown Arts Centre

New Arts Centre programmes

What's new at the Cabbagetown Community Arts Centre? The Art of Dance, Karate-Doh (self-defense), the Gold-Diggers Marching Band and a program for youthful, amateur miners, the Gold-Diggers combine to form Art Centre Project '85.

David Blackmore, the Founder and Executive Director of the Centre and this project explained that the Centre itself offers a yearly membership (adults $5, family $7, and children $3) to the public. Each of the programs mentioned above are $10 a month, with the exception of the Marching Band, which is $1 per class. Instruments are provided by the Centre. The cost is kept low by subsidies from fund-raising and grants.

'I have never turned a child away because of the cost of the program', Blackmore said. 'We're always able to work something out.'

Doug Watters, our latest and one of our most industrious Seven News distributors has nothing but praise for the programs offered by the Cabbagetown Art Centre.

'I try to support David and the good work being done at the Centre,' Doug stated. He feels that the Centre offers opportunities to Cabbagetown and Regent Park youth that might not otherwise be available.

The Art of Dance program is a course for beginners in jazz, ballet and ballroom dancing. Internationally known choreographer and performer Frank Regan is the dance director. Each course is 10 weeks and at the end of the course there is a Program Showcase, to which the public is invited. Watch for details of each Showcase in our upcoming 7 News Calendar section. Dancers are 5 years to adult.

The Gold-Diggers Marching Band provides instruments, instruction, leadership, travel and competition and consists of horns, drums and Colour Guard. The members range from 8 to 17 years of age. The Band will perform in parades, special events and competitions.

Karate-Doh is fun, self-defense, physical fitness, self confidence and self improvement. Director Ric Cameron (third level black belt) and instructor Brian Shelhorn (black belt) bring years of experience to the program. Students from this program have brought back awards from national tournaments. Ages are 5 years to adult.

The Gold-Diggers actually prospect for gold at the site of Ontario's First Gold Rush, 50 miles north of Sudbury. Claims are staked, and gold is panned in the summer. Meetings are held throughout the year and special activities offered. Children and youth 13 to 17 years are welcome to this unique project.

I know you are all still thinking about that gold...actually only a nugget or two has shown up thus far. Ah well, perhaps the real reward is the exercise, the outdoors and the freedom offered by the program.

The Cabbagetown Community Arts Centre is located at 435 Parliament (just north of Gerrard) or call David Blackmore at 925-7222.

Danforth Merchants discuss future

BY DENNIS BROWN

The Danforth Village B.I.A. (Business Improvement Area) held a General Meeting Tuesday, January 16 at the Salonica Centre on the Danforth. The meeting was well-attended by B.I.A. members and City officials.

Chairman, Jim Karygiannis moderated a lively debate about a proposed parking lot between Logan and Ferrier, just north of the Danforth. Local residents resisted a previous plan to devote that area expressly to parking. The merchants are now proposing a compromise which calls for buying the adjacent lot and turning it into a park. Both the ratepayers and the business owners have agreed to City Hall conducting a poll of the immediate neighbourhood. The poll has yet to be taken; in fact there is a problem deciding the phrasing of the question.

Metro owns the land in question, and negotiations are in progress with the Parking Authority and Parks and Recreation in respect to buying it. Catherine Saxberg spoke on behalf of the area ratepayers about the concerns of residents.

Alderman David Reville, Joanne Campbell and Tom Clifford answered questions concerning City Council's role in these and future negotiations.

Later in the meeting representatives of Ferranti-Packard Electronics Ltd. demonstrated an electronic display board that is proposed for the area. The board would feature several messages (advertisements) alternating on a lighted display.

Juris Berzins of Alexander Budrevics & Associates and Wm. Hurst Associates, Architects, made a proposal to prepare a Commercial Area Improvement Plan for the Danforth Village B.I.A., to identify a strategy and urban design plan for the retail strip. Also to be examined will be existing buildings, in respect to possible rehabilitation.

Plans for expanding the Danforth Village B.I.A. territory from Chester on the West boundary, to Broadview, were also discussed.

Greenhouse for Seniors

The Intergenerational Project of the Riverdale Community in co-operation with the Toronto Board of Education is organizing the re-opening of a greenhouse at the City Adult Learning Centre located in the Broadview-Danforth Area (1 Danforth Avenue).

Any seniors interested in the growing of green and flowering plants are invited to participate in this exciting project. You'll have an opportunity to learn about the running of a greenhouse, the varieties of plants that can be grown, and a chance to meet other seniors with similar interests. For more information, contact the project at 461-5285.

Local Political Happenings

BY JOHN CAMPEY

REVILLE SEEKS RIVERDALE NOMINATION

Ward Seven Alderman David Reville will be contesting the Riverdale NDP nomination, to be held at Riverdale Collegiate Institute on March 5, 1985. Also contesting the nomination will be Frances Lankin, a trade union activist who has been active in the women's movement. The nomination, to fill the vacancy created by the death of Riverdale MPP James Renwick, will be hotly contested, since the winner will become the NDP candidate in what is one of the safest NDP seats in the Province of Ontario. David Reville's election as Alderman for Ward 7 in 1980 followed a decade of work with East End groups concerned with a wide variety of local issues. In 1972 he founded Neighbourhood Legal Services. He joined with other parents in the early struggles to make the Board of Education more responsive, as founding Chairman of the Winchester Community Council.

As Alderman, David has been an effective advocate for affordable housing, human rights, health services, neighbourhood support services, industrial policy, labour relations and the environment. He believes strongly in community development: 'The job of a politician is to work with people at defining their goals, and to help devise strategies to achieve those goals.' Reville says: 'The starting point must be solid, committed constituency work.'

DIANA HUNT NOMINATED IN ST. GEORGE

Tenant activist Diana Hunt, a Past President of the Federation of Metro Tenants' Associations, was nominated as the NDP candidate in St. George on January 17. Rent controls will be a key issue in St. George, with tenants comprising almost 90% of the population of the riding. NDP Leader Bob Rae, who addressed the over one hundred people at the meeting, questioned the commitment of the Conservative leadership candidates to rent controls. Hunt will face Conservative MPP and cabinet minister Susan Fish, who has represented the riding since the 1981 Provincial election.

SCRIVENER APPOINTED

St. David MPP Margaret Scrivener has been appointed Chairperson of the Criminal Injuries Compensation Board of Ontario. The appointment, to take effect May 1, 1985, pays $66,500 annually. Initial speculation regarding potential Conservative nominees to run in St. David in the upcoming Provincial election includes Ward 10 Alderman Michael Walker, and John Tory, a long-time advisor to the Conservative Party in Ontario.

St. David Liberals have re-nominated Ian Scott as their candidate, while Barbara Hall, lawyer and community worker, will be the NDP standard-bearer in the election, anticipated either this spring or Fall.

FRANCES LANKIN LAUNCHES RIVERDALE CAMPAIGN

Frances Lankin, feminist, trade union activist, and a Vice-President of the Ontario NDP, launched her campaign Wednesday at the Bain Co-op. 'I'm starting at Bain,' said Frances, 'because the co-op movement represents the best way to meet social needs - it's social change through community action. Joining progressive policy with community activism is an NDP tradition I hope to continue.'

An OPSEU researcher, Frances is known as an outspoken advocate of women's rights. She has a province-wide reputation among feminists and trade unionists for hard work in the community-based fighting for equal pay, affirmative action, and daycare.

Too biased, or not too biased...

BY RENA GINSBERG

A series of children's books about the adventures of three dogs and a cat has been making headlines in Toronto recently, but the news, has not been good for the local author of the books.

The series by Kati Rekai, a long-time resident of Ward 7, was removed from the list of approved texts for Ontario last year after the education ministry ruled that the stories contain sexual stereotypes. The ensuing controversy has raised the question of what guidelines the government should use in assessing sex roles in children's literature and how stringently they should be applied.

Each book in the series explores the adventures of Mickey, Taggy and Puppo, three male dogs, and Cica, a female cat, as they visit a different city in the world. According to the ministry, Cica is portrayed as silly and passive and is always preparing the meals; the male dogs are protective of her and she needs their permission to do things, they say. They also object to the cat being female, since cats are often typecast as female.

Rekai denies that the books are sexist and says the examples of stereotyping cited by the ministry are taken out of context. She says that Cica is not the only one who performs traditional female tasks and Taggy also acts silly and asks naive questions. 'Taggy and Cica are obviously much younger than the two others and so get guidance from them,' says Rekai. She points out that Cica is the best-rounded character and so, while she has shortcomings, is actually superior in some ways: she is a fitness buff, speaks fluent French and is knowledgeable about history.

The first book in the series -- The Adventures of Mickey, Taggy, Puppo and Cica And How They Discover Toronto -- was published 10 years ago and was followed by other books about the quartet's travels in both Canadian and foreign cities. Four of the books and one French version had already been approved by the ministry as texts for grades 4, 5 & 6 when a fifth book was submitted, The Adventures of Mickey, Taggy, Puppo and Cica And How They Discover The Netherlands. That book was rejected in April 1982 on grounds of sex role stereotyping; notice was given at the same time that the other books would be examined for sex bias. In January 1984, the publisher received notification that they would be dropped from Circular 14, the official list of Ontario texts.

George Hencz of Canadian Stage and Arts Foundation, which publishes the books, wrote a letter to the ministry protesting the actions on both occasions, but no answer was received. Rekai says that she recently wrote personally to the Education Minister, Bette Stephenson, on the matter, but has received no reply thus far.

Before a book is put on Circular 14, it is evaluated by six teachers and one 'bias evaluator' and must be found free of sexual or racial bias. Based on these reports, the ministry decides whether to approve the text.

Among the ministry's guidelines for evaluating sex bias are: whether men and women are shown in various occupational roles, whether both perform household and nurturing tasks, whether parents are portrayed in a variety of activities with children, and whether males and females are shown expressing various emotions and personality traits.

'The ministry wants all activities (of males and females) to be equal and that the female should never be pictured badly,' says Rekai. But this is unrealistic, she says. 'The character of girls is very different (from boys). I don't know why you have to suppress it.'

Rekai, originally from Hungary, came to Canada in 1952. Her husband and brother-in-law founded Central Hospital on Sherbourne Street in 1957 and she is in charge of public relations for the hospital. She says her main purpose in the children's series is to convey the beauty of Toronto and show the understanding that can exist between nations and different kinds of people. She hopes that through her books children will become interested in other cities and in exploring Toronto.

National Ballet Audition Tour

This year is the 25th anniversary of the National Ballet School and the annual Audition Tour begins in February. Children in grades 5 to 12, who are serious about a professional dance career, will be chosen for this world famous intensive ballet program.

Parents or students interested in this opportunity should contact the Registrar at 964-3780 or write 105 Maitland Street, Toronto, Ontario, M4Y 1E4.

Women's week

Women's Week has become an annual event at Ryerson. Since its inception in 1980, they have been striving to provide a forum for women to participate in professional development programs, discuss career issues, and develop new interests. Although some courses are regular features of the program, new offerings are also available to meet the changing needs of today's society. This year, in response to a large number of requests, they have extended the week to include programs on Saturday. A special feature of Women's Week is the luncheon/lecture series. Women with expertise in their chosen fields will provide new insights and information on a variety of women's issues. The luncheon/lecture is usually included as part of the workshop package. In cases where the luncheon is not included, there is a one-hour lunch period scheduled. If you have any questions, would like to register, or have ideas for future programs, please call Audrey Herrema at 979-5182.

SPEAKING OUT

News for Drivers

Ontario Ministry of Transportation and Communications officials have announced the amount of property damage in reportable motor vehicle accidents was raised to $700 from $400, effective Jan. 1, 1985.

The new minimum better reflects the continually increasing costs for parts and labour to repair motor vehicles which have been involved in accidents.

The $700 reportable accident/property damage level applies to all motor vehicles, including motorcycles and mopeds as well as off-road vehicles.

An MTC spokesman noted motorists should be aware that if they are involved in an accident which results in personal injury or property damage exceeding $700, they must report it to the police.

The last increase in the reportable accident/property damage level was in January of '78.

'SEVENS'

by Mike Brown & John Campey

Snowed under?

BY HOWARD HUGGETT

'The snow, the snow, the beautiful snow, Why in the devil doesn't it go?'

That bit of verse illustrates beautifully the love-hate relationship that Canadians have with the white stuff. They adore snow-on-Christmas cards and photographs of winter scenes. When December 25th approaches they long for a snowfall, preferring delivery on Christmas Eve, but if it is still there after Boxing Day the grumbling starts. By New Year's Day frozen precipitation is no longer welcomed, except of course by skiers. Most other Canadians hate to drive or walk through snow.

Here in Toronto the municipal authorities have the job of keeping the streets clear, and this they do, although not always to the satisfaction of the public. House-dwellers are legally obliged to remove the snow and ice from the walks in front of their own property, but many of them don't and their failure to do so causes lots of trouble. Many people, especially seniors and handicapped people, are able to get around only with great difficulty or not at all. Pedestrians fall and suffer broken bones and other injuries.

Of course there are many citizens who for reasons of age or health cannot do their own shovelling. If they have no relatives on the property who are sufficiently able-bodied to do this the City will shovel, salt or clear ice at no cost to them. To apply for this service residents should go to either 433 Eastern Avenue, main floor or the Department of Public Works at New City Hall, 24th floor, East Tower, to fill out an application. Seniors should bring a senior citizen's card or a birth certificate. The physically handicapped should bring a doctor's certificate.

Those who are unable to visit either location may telephone the Department of Public Works at 947-7768/69 and ask that an investigator come to their house and help them to fill out the form. At the present time the City performs a free clearance service for about 10,000 seniors and handicapped people, and last year the cost was about $1,300,000 for clearing about 80 kilometres of sidewalk. The work was done by about 300 casual workers. Last year was a snowy one; the year before the cost was only about $600,000.

Now 10,000 would not represent anywhere near all the seniors and handicapped who are living in private dwellings in this city, and you might think that a lot of those unshovelled sidewalks belong to people who can't do it themselves and have not asked the Department of Public Works to do it for them. It isn't so, we are told by those familiar with the problem. They report that most of the trouble arises because younger people who can shovel don't. In the immediate area where I live there are several neighbours who not only shovel their own walks, they also do other people's. Most of them are seniors, who of course have more time than those who are working.

Under municipal regulations any resident who has not arranged for the City to clear his or her walk is obliged by law to do it within 12 hours after a snowfall. Any citizen who is finding it difficult or dangerous to walk on the street because of walks not cleared should phone the Public Works Department at 947-7768/69 and report the address of the offender or offenders. If the line is busy and you can't get through you should phone your local alderman. Residents of Ward Seven would phone Alderman Revell's office at 947-7916 or Alderman Campbell's office at 947-7914. They will pass on the information.

Public Works has over 30 investigators who will make a check and, if needed, will present a red warning card to the offender, who has 24 hours to act or face a fine, plus clearing charges by the city. In a recent week 2,500 such notices were sent out in this city. Clearing charges are considerable, and they are based on the frontage concerned. The average for an ordinary front walk is about $70, with a corner strip costing about $200.

On the 10th of January, a number of days after the last snowfall, I took a walk along a number of streets near where I live just to find out how this area was doing. Out of 297 houses there were 90 that either had not been done or had been done very poorly, and that is about 30% of the total. The poorest records were found on streets that were only one block long, while better performances occurred on the longer ones that would experience more traffic. It was interesting to note that both the cleared stretches and the cluttered strips had a tendency to be bunched. That would suggest that residents are influenced by what their neighbours do.

In fairness to some homeowners it should be pointed out that many storekeepers and apartment owners are also offenders in this regard. There is also the matter of how the streets are plowed by the City. Usually the snow ends up piled up against and over the top of the outside edge of the sidewalk, creating a formidable obstacle for pedestrians to clamber over. It also should be noted, in fairness to the Department of Public Works, that some of that snow that they push back on the sidewalks was there originally. Many residents are inclined to get rid of their helping of snow by shoving it out onto the street because that is the easiest way. Very often this is done before the streets are plowed, so they get it back again anyway. However, by this time there is probably salt mixed in it, so it is too late to throw the mixture on lawns or gardens.

The City of Toronto has set up a Snow Committee to look at the possibility of having the City take responsibility for all snow clearance. Some municipalities do this, Winnipeg for instance. However this city keeps the costs down by not sending the plows out unless the snowfall is over five centimetres - that is two inches. London, Ontario, plows most of its sidewalks, but in the crowded downtown section. If

Ethiopia

BY LYNN McDONALD MP

The results of Canadian aid to Ethiopia were clearly visible on my recent 10-day fact-finding mission to Ethiopia and the United Nations emergency headquarters.

The sense of disaster rose from the parched earth and the faces of the famished children, but the signs of hope were equally clear. Food is being distributed. With a special diet children are being restored to health. Health clinics are preventing many deaths in spite of the many difficulties people face each day.

Some of the earlier problems with distribution and delay have been corrected as the United Nations co-ordinates the field efforts and agencies in Canada co-ordinate their own programs.

Canadians have responded generously to the recent appeals for help. I can assure you that your donations are making a big difference, sometimes the difference between life and death.

Looking ahead, I want to stress the need for continuing Canadian support when the famine is no longer headline news. Of equal importance is the need for development assistance to deal with some of the causes of the famine. Without regular donations there will be serious gaps in the food supply by early summer. I am proposing that Canada set a target of 200,000 metric tonnes of grain for 1985 for the U.N. relief work.

Attention must also be paid to other parts of Africa. In a place like Niger, for example, some assistance now will pay big dividends by preventing the total breakdown we saw in Ethiopia. The specific needs of each country are being assessed by the African Emergency Aid Fund.

Ethiopia and some of the other areas have the potential to feed their own people and survive periodic droughts, if they receive some help in agricultural development. Improving the management of the land and providing economic stability for the villages are just two of the long term goals. Canada has both the expertise and the agencies in place to make a significant contribution toward these goals.

I will continue to press for an increase in government funding for voluntary development projects through the Canadian International Development Agency. Recently announced cutbacks may cost more in future disasters, to say nothing of the human tragedies.

The governments of Ethiopia and other areas have shown a willingness to co-operate and respond to Canadian concerns. We should take the opportunity we have now to help shape a positive future with economic and political stability for millions of people.

Raffle Winners

Results of the Gerrard Resource Centre Raffle held on December 21, 1984 were as follows: J. McMillan, First (No. 168), R. Proctor, Second (No. 373), and R. McGarry, Third (No. 646). Winners have been notified.

the City of Toronto undertakes sidewalk clearance it will have quite an effect on the tax bills.

No one likes to pay taxes, but there are so many necessary services that can best be done by a central authority. Before any decision is made to have the City of Toronto take over snow clearance of sidewalks maybe the citizens should try to do a better job of it themselves. Shovelling snow is not a bad job. On crisp winter days it can become a pastime, particularly if some of your neighbours are doing the same thing, then it can become a social event. You get an opportunity to talk to them at a time of the year when you may not see neighbours from one week to the next. If you are warmly dressed it can be a pleasant experience to shovel snow under the sparkling stars or a frosty moon.

Street Theatre Moves into Ralph Thornton

Toronto Studio Players has been teaching and performing children's theatre in and around the Ward Seven community since October of 1981. Since their first performance in December of 1981, the Players have performed over 300 times all over the city. But although they travel to perform the shows, their studio has always been in the East end.

Their first production was performed at the Ralph Thornton Centre; and now they have set up their home in the Centre. From there they will run classes for people aged six and up. Their students will learn all aspects of the theatre: acting and production. It is their belief that if the student helps to build a set, he or she will have a better understanding of how to use it on stage. ('I can not lean on that wall or it will fall down').

In 1985 the performance company is working on a special project for International Year of the Youth. This play, entitled 'EEK!!!', deals with pertinent issues of today: peace; human relationships; and creativity, as expressed by the writings of major artists of the twentieth century. e.e. cummings, Berholt Brecht, and Jorge Luis Borges are just three of the authors they have drawn upon for this play. The Players hope to tour neighbouring high schools with excerpts of the piece and enlist comments and suggestions from the students.

The Toronto Studio Players are also planning a 6th Studio Style Theatre Festival (a chance for young artists to showcase their work), performances of daytime theatre for public schools, and finally in June a tour of 'EEK!!!' through Southern Ontario.

Come the warm weather do not be too surprised if you see a crowd of people on a corner. It's probably just Toronto Studio Players doing their usual street theatre.

The Quit Smoking Blues

Statistics Canada's most recent study reports that 37 percent of all Canadian smokers tried to quit in 1981. With so many people trying to quit, it's not surprising that the 'Quit Smoking Blues' have reached epidemic proportions.

The condition is characterized by excessive anxiety, edginess, irritability, sleeplessness and fear of weight gain. For all those suffering take heart. The following words of encouragement will help give you the willpower and strength to beat the 'Quit Smoking Blues'.

If you stopped to analyze how much smoking costs, you would be surprised. A package of 20 cigarettes costs approximately $1.90 and if you smoked one pack a day, you could expect to spend $13.30 each week. Over one year, that amounts to $691.60 and means you smoked 7300 cigarettes! This doesn't take into account tax hikes or increased consumption on your part.

The bottom line is that smoking one package of cigarettes a day for the rest of your life will cost you at least $700 a year. Over the course of a 40 or 50 year smoking habit, that amounts to $28,000 to $35,000 gone up in smoke!

To beat the 'Quit Smoking Blues', think about what you will do with nearly $700 in newly-found disposable income. Go on a trip? Buy yourself an expensive present? Pay off bills?

The typical smoker's lament, 'I'd quit smoking tomorrow but I'm afraid I'll gain weight,' is one of the most often cited reasons for not quitting. In fact, studies indicate that among persons who give up smoking, only 33 percent gain weight while another third actually lose weight because they feel better and exercise more. The remaining third maintain the same weight.

In other words, if you are concerned about weight gain as a result of quitting, the odds are two to one against gaining weight as a result of giving up smoking. And more importantly, you are just as likely to lose weight as a consequence of quitting.

Increasing physical activity; keeping healthy, low-calorie food substitutes nearby and keeping your hands busy are just a few of the things you can do to help control your weight while you fight the 'Quit Smoking Blues'.

Mail Hazards Hurt us All

The Canada Post Corporation and Transport Canada have launched a joint campaign to increase public awareness of dangerous products which are prohibited in the mail.

Matches, flares, acid batteries, aerosols, cleaning corrosives and other prohibited products placed in the mail are hazards to the safety of postal workers and can cause damage to other mail.

Customers wishing further information on prohibited products should contact their customer service representative or local postmaster.

Service for Deaf

Consumers' Gas customers who have home unit teletypewriters or telephone devices for the deaf (TDD) can now contact the gas company's new TDD number 495-5923. (The TDD system is designed for people who, because of a hearing or speech problem, cannot use a regular telephone.)

Emergency and service calls on the TDD system will be handled immediately; other types of calls, such as billing inquiries, will be handled on a call-back basis.

More information about TDD devices is available from the Canadian Hearing Society at 60 Bedford Road, Toronto M5R 2K2.

End your Cockroach Wars!

SCARBORO, Ont. (CA) - E.C.R. Marketing has just introduced a new product, the RoachMaster, which kills every roach in your home and keeps on killing them for months after only one treatment. The product is so incredibly effective that it is sold with a 30 day money back guarantee.

Roaches have become the number one problem for residents, and their numbers are increasing, say public health officials. And that means increased health hazards. When roaches travel they leave a trail of droppings which can easily find its way into the mouths of very young children.

They carry bacteria which cause food poisoning, dysentery, typhoid fever, cholera, and polio.

The advantage RoachMaster has over conventional smelly sprays is that it is odourless so roaches can't smell and avoid it like they do chemical pesticides. As a result they walk right over it. They pick it up on their legs and take it back to their hiding places. There, RoachMaster wipes out the entire colony which breeds new roaches.

So it is no longer necessary to share your accommodation with these unwelcome creeps. RoachMaster is recommended to those who have roaches (it gets rid of them) and to those who 'think' they do not have roaches (it kills those that are there unknown to you and prevents others from coming over). RoachMaster sells for $11.95 ($9.95 + $2.00 postage and handling) and you should mail your cheque, money order or postal order to: E.C.R. Marketing, 2439 Eglinton Avenue East, Box 731S, Stn. 'A', Scarborough, Ontario, M1K 5E4.

VISA and MASTERCARD users should include card number, expiry date and signature.

Required immediately for the following:

- LIGHT INDUSTRIAL
 - MOVERS
 - DRIVERS - CLASS A & D
 - WAREHOUSE WORKERS
- Safety shoes an asset.

Apply in person anytime after 6 a.m.

Firefighters display at Market Gallery

Firefighters from No. 8 Hose Station proudly pose with their horse-drawn equipment. Located at the south-west corner of College Street and Bellevue Avenue, No. 8 Station was erected in 1878 and expanded in 1921.

This is one of a number of historical photographs, paintings, artifacts, maps, models and rare documents from the collections of the City of Toronto Archives and the Toronto Fire Department that can be seen in 'Trial by Fire: The History of Firefighting in Toronto'. This comprehensive display illustrates the evolution of firefighting techniques in the City from the 'bucket brigades', hand-pumpers and volunteer 'hook and ladder' companies of the 19th century to today's high-tech, mobile fire department. The exhibition is on display until March 31 at The Market Gallery of the City of Toronto Archives, 95 Front Street East at Jarvis; telephone 947-7604. Admission is free.
