The Draft for Marxist-Humanist Perspectives 2010-2011

"...celebration of the centenary year of Dunayevskaya's birth is not simply about an anniversary, but about projecting the freedom philosophy of our age that can be developed and concretized to give direction to freedom movements" (Draft Perspectives, Section III)

Since 1975, News & Letters has published the Draft for Marxist-Humanist Perspectives in our newspaper, News & Letters, so that all may contribute thoughts, experiences, & critiques.

- Is capitalism on its "last legs?" Was the economic recession of 1973-1975 the end of the post-World War II boom?*
- Because the ultra-right is so dangerous, should Leftists avoid criticizing the Center, or build coalitions with it?*
- How can the Left support world-wide anti-imperialist movements which are also nationalistic and/or fundamentalist?*
- When revolutions depose power elites, how can revolutionaries prevent new ones from arising?*
