

University Courses in Adult Education

*OSU College of Lifelong Learning &
U-M Extension Service*

Fall 1975

Drawing by Nancy Philo

15008

Detroit Cultural Center

women as thinkers
and as revolutionaries

- Russia 1917; Germany 1919; Portugal 1975
  - Working Women in America— from Abolitionism to the Women's Liberation Movement today...
  - Today's Women Theorists: Simone De Beauvoir, Kate Millet, Sheila Rowbotham, Juliet Mitchell, Maria Barreno.
  - The Black Dimension: In Africa and in America
  - Literature and Revolution
  - Philosophy and Revolution: Women as Reason as well as Force
- 6 sessions. $21. Reduced fees apply.
8544 Det.-Rackham M 7:30-9:30 p.m.
(Sept. 22-Oct. 27). Raya Dunayevskaya.

Raya Dunayevskaya, political analyst and philosopher, is the author of Marxism and Freedom . . . From 1776 Until Today; Nationalism, Communism, Marxist-Humanism and the Afro-Asian Revolutions; Philosophy and Revolution, from Hegel to Sartre and from Marx to Mao (now being translated into Italian and Spanish); Notes on Women's Liberation: Women as Reason and Revolutionary Force. She has also published in Presence Africaine, China Monthly, The American Review, and Erich Fromm's international symposium, Socialist Humanism. A one-time secretary to the famous Leon Trotsky, she broke with him because of her insistence that Russia was not a workers' state. She has lectured at many universities — California, Columbia, Chicago, Wisconsin, Edinburgh, Cambridge, Leeds, Tokyo, Kyoto, among others— on such topics as Marxist Humanism, Africa, the Black Revolt in America, and the Challenge of Mao Tse-tung. Recently she lectured at the Hegel Society of America Conference.

15009

Scheduled this Fall at the University Center for Adult Education
 University of Michigan
 — Wayne State University

Raya Dunayevskaya

is the author of Philosophy and Revolution, from Hegel to Sartre and from Marx to Mao and Marxism and Freedom . . . from 1776 until Today. She is the National Chairwoman of News & Letters Committees and a widely acclaimed writer and lecturer both here and abroad. The Raya Dunayevskaya Collection, which is sub-titled "Marxist-Humanism, 1941 to 1975—its origin and development in America", is available on microfilm from the Archives of Labor History and Urban Affairs, Walter Reuther Library, Wayne State University, Detroit, Michigan.

Six Lectures by Raya Dunayevskaya
 on
WOMEN AS THINKERS AND AS REVOLUTIONARIES

- 1—RUSSIA 1917; GERMANY 1919; PORTUGAL 1975
- 2—WORKING WOMEN IN AMERICA: from the Abolitionists to the Women's Liberation Movement Today
- 3—TODAY'S WOMEN THEORISTS: Simone de Beauvoir; Kate Millet; Sheila Rowbotham; Juliet Mitchell; Maria Barrera
- 4—THE BLACK DIMENSION: in Africa and in America
- 5—LITERATURE AND REVOLUTION
- 6—PHILOSOPHY AND REVOLUTION: Woman as Reason as well as Force

Monday evenings, 7:30 to 9:30 — Sept. 22 through Oct. 27 at Rackham Memorial, Woodward and Farnsworth, Detroit
 For information on registration and fees, write UCAE, 60 Farnsworth, Detroit, Mi. 48202