WARD 7 COMMUNITY NEWSPAPER
265 GERRARD STREET EAST

VOLUME 3, Number 14 920-8632 January 27, 1973

In an all-out blitz, tenants, at 538 Ontario Street repaired it to housing standards. Fixing the house up cost $350.00 and was a test case to show the City

Executive that the cost of repairing the house was not the $4,500 claimed by the owner Meridian.

News roundup from across the ward

An umbrella group has been formed for the area bounded by Parliament, Eastern, River and Queen streets. Called PERQ, it consists of representatives from Sackville School and Montessori Nursery, Dixon Hall and Gabby Club, Cabbagetown Coffee Centre, Little Trinity Church, Enoch Turner Schoolhouse and the South Cabbagetown Community Improvement Association. Community Meetings are being held this weekend to deal with the property on Sherbourne Street owned by Fred Braida. The City has allocated $10,000 to hire experts to come up with a plan based on the ideas forthcoming from these meetings. The planners have until Feb. 15, at which time Mr. Braida may begin demolishing the houses presently on the site.

A collection is being taken up in the community for the family of Allen McMillan, an active resident south of Carlton who died suddenly last month. Donations can be given to Ethel Proulx, past chairman of SOCCA or left at the Community Secretariat office at 320 Parliament street. Donations are being taken up by meeting with the local police regarding police-community relations in that area. Alderman John Sewell is optimistic about being able to rescind the West St. Jamestown bylaw and thus stop the development planned there. South Cabbagetown Community Improvement Association's request to the Parks Department to have trees planted along King Street has been approved. They should be planted by early spring.

Dixon Hall has indicated that it will be setting up a free Income Tax Clinic starting Feb. 12. Informal help in filling out Income Tax forms will also be offered by the Don Vale Community Centre and Neighbourhood Information Post. Roy McMurtry, a noted trial lawyer and ratepayer association president, is seeking the Progressive Conservative nomination for the now vacant St. George's Riding. A by election to fill that seat, vacated by Allan Lawrence, is expected to be called in the early spring.

BORN: to Ruth and Bruce Geddes, a bouncing baby girl, Sarah Elizabeth, a sister for Colin. Judy Beck has been hired as a typist by the Don District Community Secretariat. Funding to pay her salary comes from a recent grant of $500 a month by the United Community Fund. David Thomsett, a planning student living in South Cabbagetown, has been accepted as a full-time volunteer to work with the Community Secretariat. His first assignment was to work with a CORRA committee set up to deal with the Central Waterfront Proposal.

The St. Jamestown YMCA is presently in the process of re-negotiating their contract with Meridian. The hope is that the facilities owned by Meridian and supervised by the YMCA can be opened up to greater community participation. The Ontario Housing Tenant's Association have been denied further Federal funding for their newspaper, the Ontario Tenant, on the grounds that statements in that paper tended to embarrass and criticise OHC. The Volunteer Department at Riverdale Hospital want to thank all those people from the area who dropped gifts off at the hospital, for the patients, over the Christmas period. Many choirs and groups from local churches also came in and sang Christmas songs which were enjoyed by patients, staff and visitors. A Family Resource Centre is being set up in the annex of All Saint's Church at the corner of Sherbourne and Dundas streets. It will feature an indoor play centre for pre-school children adjoining baking, sewing and lounge facilities for their mothers. Opening date is set for Feb. 5. See Betty Staley at the church annex for more details.

Both the Don Vale Community Centre and the Overnight Drop-In on Ontario street have received LIP grants and are looking for staff to hire. The Drop-In needs five staff people; call Mike McCarthy at 925-4363. Don Vale needs a programmer and a Don Vale Instructor; call Gail Pyatt at 921-6710. Salaries range around $100 a week. SEVEN NEWS is looking for an experienced advertising salesperson to work on a commission basis. Phone 920-8632 for more information.

The Neighbourhood Information Post is doing a grocery-basket price comparison study. If you're interested in helping, phone Anna Buhay at 924-2543. A St. Valentines Day Kiss Off Pub Night is being held at the Don Vale Community Centre at 8 p.m. on Feb. 10. They are looking for a folk singer to play at the event. For information call Dave Mercer at 863-1927.

The St. Jamestown Community Social Service Club is holding a Valentine Dance on Friday Feb. 9 at 8 p.m. in the Track Room, 200 Wellesley E. Admission is 75c per person. A general meeting of the Community Social Service Club has been called for 8 p.m., Jan. 30, in the Track Room, 200 Wellesley E.

Termite infestation at the Parliament Library House, 265 Gerrard E. has resulted in them shutting down the front room for repairs. After a couple of years of searching, the Termite Inspectors finally found the nest — in a tree in the front yard. There will be a meeting at the Library House on Feb. 2 at 2:30 p.m. to discuss future plans and programs for the House. Anyone interested in Co-op Baby Sitting contact Jude Rodger at the Neighbourhood Information Post, 924-2543. The Downtown Community Television Committee will hold elections on Wednesday, February 7, at 7:30 p.m. at the Library House, 265 Gerrard Street East.

Sewell and Jaffary reject ward council, choose own advisers

by NORMAN G. BROWNE

Efforts to put some controls on Aldermen John Sewell and Karl Jaffary through ward meetings or a formally structured Ward Council were vetoed by both Aldermen at a ward meeting held last week.

Another meeting will be held at the same place, Dundas School, at 8 p.m. on February 10.

Openly smug and arrogant, Alderman John Sewell stated that he could easily manipulate any ward meeting or Ward Council that might be set up. He said he had no time for such meetings and that he wanted to stay with the self-appointed advisory system that he had already created.

Sewell added also that the ultimate control was in strong community groups, but even these he felt he could undermine or strengthen as he saw fit.

Alderman Jaffary stated that every politician had from ten to 25 key people behind him: people he looked to for advice and guidance. He implied that such people were chosen by the alderman and not appointed or elected by the people in his ward.

Mr. Jaffary also stated that if such a Ward Council was appointed or elected in Ward Seven it would meet very infrequently as he had no time to attend such meetings.

These, and other statements by Sewell and Jaffary so confused, divided and manipulated the meeting that a motion to set up a steering committee to establish a Ward Council was defeated.

Grants keep Regent Park unit going

In a year-end statement, the Regent Park Community Services Unit reports grants totalling $24,000 gave them a financial base to operate well into 1973.

The grants were from the United Community Fund, Metro Department of Social Services and the provincial Department of Community and Social Services. These grants are used to pay rent, salaries and honorariums.

The Regent Services Unit also received a Local Initiative Program grant last year which helped pay salaries of additional help as well as maintenance and repairs.

Projects undertaken during 1972 by the Services Unit include the completion and distribution of a Resources Handbook, the beginning of English classes for New Canadians with babysitting provided and the initiation of a Hot Lunch Program in Regent Park Junior Public School.

Percy Torrens, Resident Case Aide, has had his contract renewed for another year. Doug Barr, Unit Co-ordinator will work part time at the Unit for Children's Aid while devoting the remainder of his time to his new job as School Trustee for Ward Seven.

The discussion about Sewell and Jaffary's advisory committees and the setting up of a Ward Council took up most of the meeting. This also angered John Sewell who stated that the talk "bored" him and he found it "more exciting to talk about issues".

However, when the discussion did get around to that subject, Alderman Sewell blasted the people at the meeting for not having any thoughts or concrete ideas to present. "It's very disheartening," he said. He stated that he wasn't interested in hearing vague policy statements but wanted what he termed "action planning." However, he gave no explanation as to what he meant by that term.

When the meeting finally broke up, it left many people feeling angry, confused, frustrated and bewildered.

They were bewildered because they thought that by electing Sewell, Jaffary and a reform majority at City Council, they had achieved Utopia. But in reality, Sewell and Jaffary were telling them, very little had changed.

The anger and hurt resulted from the realization that the chummy "we're-all-one-big-happy-family" relationship that they had enjoyed with Sewell and Jaffary while they were members of the opposition had changed dramatically since they took over City Hall.

The biggest blow was probably the realization that the "father-figure" role that Sewell and Jaffary had projected during the last two years had ended.

No longer would they be that available or interested in guiding, leading and comforting the people of Ward Seven.

Their new role is running the city: filling the vacuum created by the ouster of the "old guard" from City Council.

The question now is who, or what, will fill the vacuum created in Ward Seven by the effective loss of its two aldermen?

Students to be teachers

A radically innovative Youth-Tutoring-Youth project is in the process of being organized by the Riverdale Youth Project II for pupils and students in the Riverdale area.

The project is seeking 27 students in grades 9, 10, and 11, who are enrolled in Riverdale area schools. These students will be paid $2.25 a tutoring hour for an average of 4 hours a week to tutor other area students.

Pupils and tutors needing the greatest assistance for subject upgrading or school completion will be tutored or hired first.

For more information, contact Riverdale Youth Project II at 465-8106.

School trustees hold education forum, set up office and 'hotline' in ward

by DOUG BARR

WARD 7 SCHOOL TRUSTEE

As noted in the last issue of SEVEN NEWS, there will be a special meeting of the Board of Education on Feb. 6 to discuss the future role of our vocational schools.

To get the feeling of Ward Seven residents on these schools and to help your trustees vote responsibly on the matter, the first meeting of the Ward Seven Education Forum will be held at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 1 in the staff room of Sprucecourt School, 70 Spruce street.

All residents are urged to attend and particularly those parents who have teens going to one of our vocational schools.

Gord Cressy and I are also planning short meetings with the students of both Eastdale and Parkway Secondary schools to discuss among other things, whether or not they feel that vocational schools should be co-educational.

If you are interested in attending the Forum and would like to read the Brief on West Park Vocational School which the Board will be considering Feb. 6, please call me (Doug Barr, 690-3352) or my colleague (Gord Cressy, 921-3720) and we will send you a copy.

Over the next two years as important issues arise either at the Board or in Ward Seven, meetings of the Education Forum will be called to enable residents to express themselves collectively and to plan the best way to bring about positive changes.

Representatives of home and school associations, school community councils, citizen's groups, school staff and individual parents, students and citizens are all invited.

We realize, however, that some school problems are personal and urgent and that the Forum is not the appropriate place to deal with them. Because of this we are setting up an "Education Hotline" where you can phone any hour of the week and your concern will be dealt with. We hope to have the Hotline manned by area residents five mornings and five afternoons a week. In the evenings and on weekends an answering machine will record your message.

Anyone who is interested in becoming a Hotline Volunteer and can regularly commit one half-day a week to answering the phone plus extra time for initial training, is invited to a meeting at 8 p.m. on Monday, January 29 at the home of Shirley Walmsley, 20 Laurier Ave. in Don Vale.

The Education Hotline (921-4404) will be in operation as of Feb. 1st and will be located in the Christian Resource Centre, 297 Carlton Street. We are most grateful to John Metson and the staff of the C.R.C. for their kind offer of rent-free space.

We see the Hotline not as an attempt to by-pass existing school-community relationships, but rather as an additional way of helping residents get connected up more successfully with their local schools. We also see it as an appropriate use of the "office" of your trustees.

Don't forget . . . after Feb. 1 — your Education Hotline is 921-4404.

Finally, you will be interested to know that from now until the end of June, Gord Cressy and I plan to visit every school in Ward Seven. Each Thursday we will be at a different school, spending lunch time with the teachers and the afternoons with the students, observing programs.

We feel it is extremely important that, as trustees, we have some first hand knowledge of how our children are being educated.

PRODDING THE ALDERMEN:

Is there a bureaucrats' plot to stop forces of change?

by KARL JAFFARY
WARD 7 ALDERMAN

After three rather hectic weeks as part of the City government, it seems to me that the big question still up in the air is who is going to take the initiative to bring about real change at City Hall.

I don't think it very likely that the politicians will do very much unless they are prodded. My schedule is a really impossible one, and on most weeks I end up having less than eight hours of the working week when I am not required to be sitting in formal City meetings voting on things.

There seem to be at least five meetings a week in the ward in the evenings, and I also have to read some pretty large piles of paper before each of the City meetings. There is a real danger that I will spend all of the rest of the time trying to deal with ward problems — helping people with Ontario Housing, Unemployment Insurance and things like that.

John has a little more time than I do since he is not on Metro, but that just means that he ends up with more of the ward problems than I do. I sometimes get the feeling that the whole thing is a plot by the civil servants designed to prevent politicians from ever doing anything significant.

People make changes

At the moment I am working on several projects. The first is parking, and I've written a good deal about it here before. The hold-up in getting flexibility of parking regulations has been getting the Provincial law changed so that we can pass the by-laws people seem to want.

The City lawyer who was working on it had a bad heart attack, which delayed things. I hope that we will get action at the City level next week. If we don't, we will be too late to get the laws changed by the province this year.

The Dundas Street widening question is being re-opened by William Archer at Metro. I have met with FODARA on his proposals, and I understand that they have some of their own which I can raise.

Planning Board nominees

City Council members spent most of Friday, January 19, interviewing nominees for the Planning Board. Council will elect nine from about fifty names at its meeting on January 31. There are four people who live in Ward 7 in the running — Peter Akehurst, Edna Dixon, Jim Houston and Dallard Runge. I think we might just manage to elect two or even three of them. The sorts of people who have applied show a big trend away from the traditional real estate business nominees.

The "pilot project" for full snow removal on Allen Avenue is geared up and ready to go, but as I write this there hasn't been much snow. The Department now has a loud Claxton horn and it tried it out on January 20th. When Allen Avenue people hear the horn they are to try to move their car within half an hour. Hopefully, if it works well, we can expand on this next winter.

Lane improvement

Another real move ought to be lane improvements. The Works Department has been experimenting with and improving a quick-setting treatment called Slurry Seal. It is simply poured on over a good gravel or crushed stone base, and when it is done it works like light asphalt. We hope to be able to try it on some lanes.

Last week we approved making minor repairs in the lanes South of Queen, and between Parliament and River. We are continuing to fund the neighbourhood renewal project, East of the Don, which helps people fix up houses.

St. Michael's Hospital promises 'detox' centre in ward by April

by DON WEITZ

Since the Seaton Unit on George Street closed down last November, there has been no detoxification centre in the ward for thousands of men and women suffering from alcoholism. The closest detox is the Salvation Army's Harbor Light Mission on the corner of Jarvis and Shuter, but that has only 8 beds.

However St. Michael's Hospital plans to open up a detox unit sometime in March or April. Sister Anne Marie Carrey, the Director of St. Mike's detox, says that St. Mike's will take over the Red Cross warehouse on 314 Adelaide East (corner of Sherbourne & Adelaide) on "February 1st", then renovate it by March.

According to Sister Anne Marie, St. Mike's detox will have 20 beds for men only; its "program" will probably be similar to the old Seaton detox. She said the men can "stay 7-10 days", and there will be "8 or 9 staff, including Al Boyle who will act as supervisor in charge of day-to-day operations."

Sister Anne Marie expects that "about half" the referrals will come from the police (51 Div.) and the rest from St. Mike's and off the street. (According to Bill 101 — passed last summer — the police must take you to a "detoxification centre" or "public hospital" if you're found drunk in a public place.)

A half-way house to provide rehabilitation and treatment to men discharged from the Detox Unit is also planned. The Half-way House will be run by the Metro Urban Church Board (a joint United and Anglican Church committee). Dr. G. Birch, chairman of the Board says they have been looking "North of Bloor" but haven't yet decided where to locate the house.

Don District to get new food co-op

A food co-op, patterned after the very successful Karma Co-op, is being organized in the Don District. With very little advance publicity, the Co-op has already attracted a number of members as well as offers of help and donations of supplies.

The Co-op is seeking a thousand members. Each member will be charged a $10 life membership fee and be asked to make a $35 loan to the Co-op to help it pay back a bank loan used to buy stock. Members will also be asked to donate one or two hours a month of their time to help run the Co-op.

The members of the Co-op will decide what type of food items to carry as well as making decisions on the general running of it. All items sold by the Co-op will be at wholesale plus 15 percent. The 15 percent mark-up will be used to pay for overhead and on-going expenses of the Co-op Store.

Anyone interested in joining, helping to organize or donating to the Co-op should phone 921-3093.

Stop Dundas Widening

Anyone interested in preventing Dundas street from being widened is asked to attend a meeting of the Public Works Committee of City Council on Monday, January 29 at 11:45 a.m.

A strategy meeting, also open to anyone, will be held in the Alderman's Lounge, behind the Council Chambers, at 11:15.

THREE HOUSING BRIEFS

Roomers, tenants, want Govt. help

by NORMAN G. BROWNE

The Federal government has announced a number of bold new proposals in the field of housing. The Provincial government has established an Ontario Advisory Task Force on Housing Policy, with public meetings scheduled for next month.

And newly elected Mayor Crombie has announced that the City of Toronto will create a task force on housing to bring in recommendations by July.

By coincidence, the Don District of Ward Seven has prepared or is preparing a number of briefs, proposals and studies dealing with the issue of housing.

Regent Park brief

Regent Park was first off the mark with a lengthy brief entitled, "A New Deal for Ontario Housing Tenants". The Regent Park brief contains 17 recommendations, the major of which are a decrease in the present rent scale and a plan whereby tenants can buy their own units.

The Regent Park brief in turn sparked a strong negative stand by resident groups in Trefann and South Cabbagetown-York. Their argument is that tenants in the private sector are paying far more rent than OHC tenants and a decrease in rent in OHC units would only further alienate them from private sector tenants.

Another reason for not endorsing the Regent Park brief was that a decrease in OHC rents would have to be made up through taxes. This means that private tenants who now pay exorbitant rents would be subsidising, through their taxes, the lower rents of people in public housing.

FODARA brief

The rejection of the Regent Park Brief by two groups in the Don District resulted in the Federation of Don Area Resident Associations writing a brief themselves on the private housing sector.

Still in the preliminary stage, this brief seems to be focussing in on: the need for a guaranteed annual income, no rent controls, control of land speculation, subsidise the tenant not the landlord, require low-income housing in any new development, increase welfare rent allowance, and re-structure OHC.

The third brief is titled, "Roomers: The Lost Race of Society" and is included in "A Study on Roomers" which is a survey on roomers in the South of Carlton area done by the Christian Resource Centre.

Roomer report

Copies of this report already have been submitted to the Ontario Advisory Task Force. The Task Force has been asked by one of its members, Margaret Scrivener, MPP for St. David, to include the problems of roomers in its terms of reference.

Some of the recommendations in the Roomer report include: licensing of rooming houses, inclusion of roomers in the Landlord-Tenant Act, legislation to end discrimination against roomers, and a wider choice of accommodation for people who are forced to or choose to live in rooms.

Anyone wishing to contribute to, or take part in, the presentation of any of these briefs should contact Michael Stuart at the Community Secretariat office, phone 923-9869.

Developer Braida demands control

DEAR EDITOR:

Should developers have any say in the activities of community workers? This is the question raised by the actions of Fred Braida at a recent meeting of the South of Carlton Working Committee.

At this meeting Braida not only tried to put limitations on the work of community staff but attempted to dissuade one of eight tenants who showed up from going into the meeting and finally, during discussion, wanted to personally run the election of the tenant representative on the working committee.

On the first point, it was Mr. Braida's opinion that I have no right to suggest to his tenants that they have a voice in what happens to them and that they could choose to stay in their rooms if they wanted to until this voice and their future was clarified.

Secondly, after failing to convince a tenant he didn't have to be at the meeting, Braida then suggested that he call a tenants' meeting and that only those not moving from their rooms be eligible. Considering the fact that eviction notices have been issued, this would have been a meeting of Braida and his employees! This suggestion was turned down and a committee of four: Ingrid Smith, Elsie Norton, Ethel Proulx and a tenant, Al Bailey, was elected.

After the meeting Mr. Braida claimed he wasn't aware his tenants had no place to move as promised. The next morning arrangements were made to move many of them.

Mr. Braida, ignoring the fact that I've been working with other community workers under the direction of SOCCA and the Neighbourhood Information Post, has apparently nominated me as his private enemy no. 1.

I gratefully accept this nomination as I figure Mr. Braida has all the friends he needs and he could use at least one enemy besides his tenants. As a community worker's job is to represent the needs of the roomers, tenants and working people in the area, it is to be expected this may conflict with the interests of the Braidas, Meridians and E.P. Taylors in our society. While we may work with people we don't fundamentally agree with we cannot work for them.

Dixon Hall stays on top, pressed by Regent Park

by MIKE BRITTON

Dixon Hall teams have taken the lead in both divisions of the South Don Valley Hockey League.

In the Pee-Wee division (ages 10-12) Kingsley Community Centre and Regent Park, with two less games played, are pressing close. In the Bantam division (ages 13-15) Kingsley has lost its last two games and has fallen back, but Regent Park is a threat. Other teams in the league are Don Vale Community Centre, Woodgreen Community Centre and St. Christopher House.
