NEXT ISSUE

The next issue will be out three weeks from today, the weekend of June 30. Deadline for copy is NOON, Monday, June 25. Drop copy at 80 Winchester St., 275 Broadview Ave., or 265 Gerrard St. E. Support your paper: write; deliver; donate money.

Local folk spurned by O.H.C.

The Ontario Housing Corporation has flatly turned down a request by the South of Carlton Working Committee to give local residents first choice as tenants for the new O.H.C. building at Sherbourne and Shuter streets.

In a letter dated May 24, 1973, Mr. Riggs, Acting Managing Director for O.H.C., said: "... we would first of all want to hear from Metro and if they believe we should change our policy, then we would like to contact other groups, including persons on the waiting list regarding their views."

At a recent meeting of South of Carlton Community Action, Vera Ellsworth claimed that some people in the area are afraid to apply for low-rent O.H.C. accomodation for fear they'll be forced to move out of their neighbourhood.

At its last meeting, the Working Committee passed a motion asking O.H.C. to open a local rental office for another development at Dundas and Sherbourne.

Two other areas have already won an agreement from O.H.C. on this issue. Local residents will have first choice of the O.H.C. housing units both in Trefann Court and in the Wigwam Project.

KITE FLYING: Kite-flying is a popular sport in some city parks. Here, two enthusiasts take advantage of an up-current on the east side of Riverdale Park.

Our paper begins its 4th year

With this issue, SEVEN NEWS goes into its fourth year of publication and maintains its place as the oldest community-run newspaper in Toronto.

The paper is almost as old as Ward 7. The ward was created late in 1969 just before the municipal election; the paper began six months later, on May 29, 1970.

SEVEN NEWS is truly a community newspaper, a non-profit organization owned and operated by the residents of the ward. The columns of the paper are open to anyone who lives, works or worships in the ward.

SEVEN NEWS has largely done away with the role of the reporter. Every member of the ward is a "reporter" on his or her own experience. In this way, SEVEN NEWS has become an alternate kind of journalism to the third-person journalism of the commercial media.

Community involvement in the paper has grown steadily during the past three years. At present about 200 unpaid volunteers are involved in each issue, including writers and distributors who range from 8-year-old kids to university professors and who deliver 23,000 copies to almost every doorstep.

Where do we go from here? The debate is just beginning: Should we charge, say, 10c a copy? Should we go after grants? How much can we increase our advertising revenue? Although people tell us we are widely read and appreciated, how many people are really reading the paper?

These are some of the questions that must be answered. Perhaps a start will be made at the next editorial meeting on Sunday, June 17, at 7:30 p.m. at the Don Vale Community Centre, 80 Winchester St. All SEVEN NEWS meetings are open, and Ward 7 residents are encouraged to attend and take part in making decisions and helping to improve our paper.

THAT'S THE WAY THE MONEY GOES

by CATHY DOWDELL

An Ontario Housing Corporation supervisor has been suspended after metro police were called in last week to investigate an alleged theft of O.H.C. goods. Two members of the Canadian Union of Public Employees told their union president, Don Roach, that they had been ordered by an O.H.C. supervisor to deliver two doors, 40 pounds of ceiling tiles and a quantity of lumber to the private garage of the supervisor's home.

C.U.P.E. members working for O.H.C. say there is widespread disappearance of goods from O.H.C. stockrooms, including new refrigerators and stoves.

Charges that O.H.C. mismanagement is resulting in high rents and a waste of taxpayers' money have been noted recently by a number of tenant groups.

Overnight drop-in: the sleeper of the season

CONTRIBUTORS: Recent donors to SEVEN NEWS include: Mr. and Mrs. R. Campbell, George Levkovich, Kate Stevens, Lucien Thomas, Mrs. Sawyer, Mrs. Beatrice Russell and Frank Kvedaras. The paper still badly needs donations. DISTRIBUTORS: The "phantom distributor" (see SEVEN NEWS, May 26) turned out to be Janet Howard, president of the Don Vale residents' association. It was all due to a misunderstanding that ended happily. New distributors for SEVEN NEWS are: Pearl Colley, Peter-Kopplin, Fred Sharpe, Blanche Wolever, Sarah Henry, Sally Maye, Kate Stevens, Mrs. Eunice Keddy, Peter Nemeth, Jimmy Smith, Jeanne LeGal, Marie McDonald and Cindy MacKay. If you're not getting a paper regularly, call and let us know.

BAZAAR: The Children and Senior Citizens Alike (CASCA) group raised about $350 during an all-day bake sale and bazaar at 285 Shuter Street on May 31.

WALKATHON: The Street Haven, on Pembroke Street south of Allan Gardens, is holding a Walkathon on Sunday, June 10, to raise money to continue its work. It's a drop-off point for SEVEN NEWS and it describes itself as a place to help "sad women... drug abusers, thieves, prostitutes — women who live and die in a desperate society of their own."

WOMEN'S ROLE: A public meeting is being held in the Council Chamber at City Hall on Thursday, June 14, to talk about improving the role of women. It's being called by Ald. Dorothy Thomas and Margaret Bryce, co-chairpeople of the Interim Committee to co-ordinate Ways and Means to Establish a Municipal Task Force on the Status of Women.

GAY WAY: For homosexual women, a Gay Women's Festival is being held at the McGill St. YWCA on June 30. In the evening, there'll be a free dance (licensed).

MOVEMENTS: Jim Garrard has taken over the circulation and advertising job at SEVEN NEWS, replacing Bruce Lawson and Carolyn Barber... Sue Abela has been hired by the Company of Young Canadians for one year to continue her work in the South of Carlton area... Gayle Mercer has left the Don Vale Community Centre.

WRITE-IN: Ted Plantos, a local poet, is writing a book of short stories and poems on the people of Cabbagetown. He is looking for ideas and experiences that could be included in the book. You can contact him c/o SEVEN NEWS, 265 Gerrard St. E.

GIRL TALK: The Women's Place is holding a Summer Challenge Program for girls ages 9 to 15. The program will include: ceramics, carpentry, fix-it, etc. For more info phone 929-3185.

OPENINGS AND CLOSINGS: Woodgreen United Church's "Outside Inn" will hold its grand opening Tuesday evening, June 19, from 7:30 — 9:30. The "Inn" will be open every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and beginning in July it will also be open afternoons from 1:30 — 4:30... The Neighborhood Information Post will be closed Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights for the summer. The new hours will be 9:30 — 6:00 Mon-Fri. Wednesday nite will be the free legal aid clinic... The Cabbage Town Coffee House and Trefann Court SIP have both closed due to the cutbacks on LIP funding.

DAY CAMPS: The Broadview Y is accepting registration for boys and girls (ages 6 — 12) summer day camp. Call 461-8123 for more info.

FREE FILMS: Friday, June 15: "The Headless Horseman (starring Will Rogers) and Rin Tin Tin. Friday, June 22: "Don Juan (1926, John Barrymore) and Son of the Sheik (1926, Rudolph Valentino). They're both free and start at 8 p.m. at the Parliament St. Library House 265 Gerrard E. The Parliament St. Library is now open Wednesdays, from 12 noon until 8:30. During the month of June they will be giving away a free flower to each of the Wednesday borrowers.

TENANT VICTORY: The new concessions in St. Jamestown won by the Residents Improvement Association have begun to go into effect. Tables have been placed in laundry rooms, whitewashing and better lighting now apply in some garages, and four more security guards have been hired. Visitor parking has been extended to 4 a.m. (overnight at weekends).

DETOX DELAY: There's been another delay in the opening of St. Michael's Hospital Detoxification Centre. Latest word from Detox supervisor Al Boyle is that renovations should be finished by the "middle of June." The centre, at 314 Adelaide St. E., will hold an open house.

CAMPING TRIP: Sue Barnard, from Winchester School, reports that the Ward 7 Businessmen's Association is again supporting the school's camping trip from June 16 to 23...

SUPPORT: The overnight drop-in, which operates from Central Neighbourhood House, 349 Ontario St., was threatened with closure when its LIP grant ran out. A meeting of supporters turned up such a positive response, that the drop-in will be continued indefinitely with volunteer staff. Meanwhile, their LIP grant has been extended for another two weeks...

MOTHERS' CLASSES: You can learn to be a mother by attending free pre-natal classes at 430 Broadview Ave. (just north of Gerrard). The next course, run by the Metro Pre-Natal Education Committee, begins on July 12 at 7:30 p.m. and lasts 8 weeks. For information, call 363-4971.

City to impose 45 ft. height limit in south of Carlton area

Charles Anthony, who owns the parking lot across the street from the Westover Hotel and manages the land south of Dundas between Pembroke and Sherbourne for Meridian, came before the May 28 meeting of the South of Carlton Working Committee.

The City intends to impose a height limitation of 45 feet on this part of the South of Carlton area next month so any developer who wants to build higher than 4 or 5 storeys now has to discuss his plans with the community.

As a result, Mr. Anthony came to the last Working Committee meeting to ask the Committee whether they had any suggestions for development on the property.

Mr. Anthony's main interest is to sell the land to a developer. People agreed that it was too early to come to any concrete conclusions on what should be built on the land so it will be discussed further at the next meeting.

BRAIDA BLOCK

More news on the development for the vacant lot on the Dundas-Sherbourne corner. Mr. Braida originally applied to build a nine-storey roomer's hostel on the site but since City Council passed a ban on apartment hotels, he may not be able to put his plan into effect.

As a result, a group of people from the Working Committee with architects Diamond and Myers, have been talking with Mr. Braida about how the plans for the building might be changed to fit in better with the neighborhood.

Some of the goals the Committee would like to see as part of the project are: a mix of people rather than all roomers; make the building lower than nine storeys; have some stores, possibly a mall through the building; and keep 237 and 239 Sherbourne Street. It is hoped that an agreement will be reached soon.

SURVEY RESULTS

The Housing Survey has just been completed. Many people in the community put a lot of time into interviewing area residents for the Survey.

It shows that most tenants and homeowners like the area and want to stay in South of Carlton. It asked people what they would like to see in the new plan. Some of the items listed were: renovate old houses; no high-rise; remove the undesirables; more family housing and more recreation centres.

Two vacancies were filled on the Working Committee. Mr. Gary Roxborough was nominated for the homeowner category and Mrs. Pearl Colley was nominated for the tenant family category.

The next Working Committee meeting will be held on June 11 at 7:30 p.m. at Central Neighborhood House, 349 Ontario Street. If you're interested in the issues we've talked about here, please come to the meeting, or drop into the Planning Office at 265 Gerrard St. East, 924-4826.

Information centre to deal with birth control and pre-natal care

by JUDY STALLMAN and JOHN CAULEY

The Family Information Centre, working out of Don Vale Community Centre, (80 Winchester St.) is an O.F.Y. sponsored project concerned with the lack of information available about birth control, pre-natal and post-natal care, and similar health problems related to the family unit.

They are open from 10 am to 8 pm, 5 days a week to dispense literature and make referrals. They will assist in making appointments with doctors, and provide accompaniment to clinics. Each staff member is versed in the field, and able to counsel, explain and demonstrate birth control methods.

A doctor will be present on Monday afternoons from 1:30 to 4:30 each week to examine and write prescriptions for birth control devices.

The Family Information Centre will also be hosting youth workshops and open community forums at Don Vale Community Centre with guest speakers and films.

Babysitting will be provided for children whose parents attend forums, as well as for mothers who are otherwise unable to attend clinic appointments.

Community nights will be announced in SEVEN NEWS.

For further information call 967-4411-2, or drop in.

GROWING UP

My birthday is coming tomorrow
And then I'm going to be four
And I'm getting so big that already
I can open the kitchen door.

I'm very much taller than Baby
Though today I am still only three
And I'm bigger than Bobtail the puppy
Who used to be bigger than me.

— Diana Bradt and Cheryl Lethbridge.

Legal aid clinics continue in Ward 7

by PHILIP ZYLBERBERG
Unknown to many residents of Ward 7 despite the hundreds of cases they have handled over the past two years in this part of town, are the five legal assistance clinics run by the Student Legal Aid Society (SLAS), an organization of law students at the University of Toronto.

SLAS has been in operation for five years and over the past two years it has expanded its activities outward from its campus centre at 44 St. George St.

Completely staffed by students, all of the services provided by SLAS are free. However, all the difficult cases, as well as all the cases going to court, are checked by a lawyer hired for that purpose by SLAS.

SLAS is not sure to what extent it is allowed to go to court for its clients, but it does make a regular practice of acting for clients in Small Claims Court, and Magistrates' Court for Highway Traffic and summary conviction offences.

They also appear for people in front of the Immigration Appeal Board, the Unemployment Review Board, and other administrative tribunals.

They give advice and assistance on almost every legal problem a Ward 7 resident may encounter — from welfare to divorce, from a parking ticket to a notice of eviction, and many others. Also, everything that you tell them is completely confidential.

Over the summer, the program is funded by Opportunities For Youth and employs 12 students to run the campus clinic and 14 others. Of these 14, five are in Ward 7 at the following places:

Open Door Center, All Saints Church, 315 Dundas St. E., Tues, Thurs, 1-2:30 p.m.

Friendship Center, All Saints Church, 315 Dundas St. E., Tues, Thurs 2:30-4 p.m.; Wed 7-9 p.m.

Neighbourhood Information Post, 265 Gerrard St. E., (924-2544), Wed. 1-4; 7:30-10 p.m.

Dixon Hall, 58 Sumach St. (863-0499), Mon-Thurs 11 a.m. — 3 p.m.

Bain Avenue, 100 Bain Ave., 5 the Oaks (a private apartment), Mon 7:30-10 p.m.

There are also other places in Ward 7 where free legal assistance can be obtained. The Eastminster Church, on Danforth, has hired two law students for the summer and they are there all day. Lawyers are available at Dixon Hall on Monday from 7 to 9 p.m., where they are backed up by a volunteer student as well, and at the Donvale Community Centre on Tuesday from 6 to 7:30.

Also, the Campus Legal Assistance Center, the SLAS' central clinic at the University of Toronto, is open Monday to Friday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at 44 St. George St. (928-6447).

P.S. Bring any relevant documents when you go for legal help.

It's all over says LIP man

A federal government bureaucrat has told SEVEN NEWS that all Local Initiative Program grants are to be phased out by the end of summer.

Projects employing five or less will end on June 30; projects employing six to 10 will end on July 31; and projects employing 11 to 20 will end on August 31. Projects apparently will be cancelled according to this formula, regardless of merit.

Projects of native peoples will be phased out in November.

Cabbagetown boxers clean up the north

by PETER WYLIE

The Cabbagetown Boxing Club was involved in two recent boxing shows out of town. On Saturday May 26 our boxers were in Norwood, Ontario, and the boys came through with flying colours.

John Hood (Cabbagetown) 65 lbs. defeated Monty Keast, 68 lbs. of Peterborough.

Ricky Bender (Cabbagetown) 90 lbs. defeated Steven Kendry, 89 lbs. of Peterborough. This was Bender's seventh win in a row with no defeats.

Steve Bandura (Cabbagetown) 145 lbs., defeated Sandy Davidson, 145 lbs. Camp Borden.

Dereck Kikot (Cabbagetown) 153 lbs., was TKO'd by Bruno Piche 157 lbs. Camp Borden.

Mike Scott (Cabbagetown) 127 lbs., defeated Jim Johnson, 133 lbs., Camp Borden.

Steve "Sugar" Grant (Cabbagetown), 125 lbs., displayed a tremendous attack in a bout with Norm Pelly, 120 lbs., of Peterborough, in an attempt to avenge a defeat by Pelly ten days earlier, but it was not to be. Grant can't wait to get a return with Pelly again but chances are it may never come off. I know if I were Pelly I wouldn't get in the ring with Grant again.

Grant is trained by Rocky Walton, an ex-pro himself and a former Argonaut footballer.

On Monday the club was in Sudbury Ontario and although tired from the long trip of some 400 miles in two days, they put on a rousing battle with some of the top competition to be found anywhere in Ontario.

Ricky Bender, although suffering from a partial sprained right thumb showed his ability by handing Sudbury's favorite Arne Punnkinen, the Ontario Champion, a stirring boxing lesson.
